Contribution in SEGP Coursework:

We designed an android app for Vaccination. As this whole project was the efforts of all members but we defined main duties to all members.

My main duty in this project was to design the project prototype and then lead it to on android front end design. After this I have link all back-end data to front end side that I have designed.

Bilal main duty was to design back-end data and connect it to firebase database.

Zainab was designing firebase database and optimizing it.

Imtiaz and Atiq was working on Documentation and other documents that we have to submit along with. They also helped other members in other things too.

Atiq was also contributing in coding. he wrote the code of notification, calendar for date and recycler view.

Note: As this project was a group project, we were discussing everything in meetings and updating each other with our work. So in this way, we were able to know each and everything of project. Overall our team was working great in every step. I was very satisfied with my team and our performance in the project.
